LATE EDITIO

of the State. Competition is kinder the ever. The old methods of production and of manufacture were not sufficient of management with the methods which languid study has placed at the disposal of the workers. Time is an essence of every creation nowadays, and the systems which were found useful enough in the time of our forefathers are now hopelessly out of date. Producers and manufacturers in other parts of the world are continually improving, and we in Australia to keep on a level with them, must make ourselves acquainted with the best that is elsewhere known and thought and taught. But Australians want to do more than keep on a level with the attainments of other peoples—we want to get ahead of them, and maintain that position. We must find our own way headed at the outset by the very excellence of our general education. A false idea would seem to be engendered by the stress

public property should take. Such a thing as a picnic was unheard of within the provinces, and the mere idea of persons meeting thus in the open air would have excited much conversation in the minds of the caretakers. Similar conformity did in that of the insular priests who imposed Mr. Pritchard's Prior the restrictions erected on the side of strictness; but it is worth the while
of all who are proud of their Botsanian to remember that it was under such conditions that the public service was made and maintained. Slight-ness which Sydneyites now enjoy which intercolonial visitors enjoy a priceless possession on the harbor-front of a great city cannot be formed and preserved without certain restrictions, and the less it happens that these are made the less likely it is that the people are concerned, by the fact that joining is the Sydney Domain.

restriction whatever is placed on the orderly enjoyment and recreation of the people. If the Gardens are allowed to become a disorderly and unkempt place, the reason of the liberal grant will be lost, less persons to stroll fruitfully, but more fragments of newspaper, and the miscellaneous collection of rubbish that will soon cover the paths, will change its character altogether and become simply a public park like any other. Then the conservation of many valuable plants has to be considered. If the Gardens are to be like the Botanic Gardens to see that the principle of pleasant places is used without being abused.

become "journalists," and others strut and fret their hour upon the stage. This lasts for a little time. Competition faces them here too. Cheaper clerks do more and more shopkeepers, young actors and journalists than come reluctantly upon the scene and drive the others away. And after a while they find themselves occupied in painting railings for a Christmas dinner.

This is just why the completest possible form of technical education is an absolute necessity for the working man. The American people must have education which will teach us to use our hands as well as our brains or our memory—and to use our hands by the aid of our memory or our brains to the best advantage. Not all of us can be physicians and surgeons; else the President, "Physician, heal thyself!" would not be such a hazardous proposition. Nor can we all be heretists or colleagues. In that case everyone would incur the reproach of having a fool for his client. We cannot all be divines. There must be some sort of a congregation, if only to pay the clergyman's salary, and to give somebody the opportunity to display his "wild curates." And so on all through the "gentle" callings. There must be somebody to pay the merchant or the shopkeeper who employs clerks and assistants; somebody who has the wherewithal to keep the public servant in meat and drink and amusement; the market for labor, the overstocked and it is destined to maintain this chaos—nay, to aggravate it—in view of the steady and increasing competition of female workers. Now, nobody needs to be told what to do when he finds that there is no demand for LASARUS FOR ENGLAND.—The majority of officers and men who volunteered to go to England for military training went into camp yesterday for a few days before taking passage in the Niagara.

The six officers three went into companies—Captain John Maitland, James Osborne (Berrys), and Lieutenant Basil Maitland. There were over 90 men from the following centres—Parmanis, 26; Berrys, 17; St. Catharines, 18; Hamilton, 13; Channing, 6; Maitland, 6; Robinson, 1; there are about 25 more troopers yet to come, besides the following officers—Lieutenant Alex (Sington), Lieutenant Basil Maitland, of the 1st Cavalry, and Captain Maitland. For every soldier there was a horse and 100 men and 60 officers were enlisted. These men are under canvas and have been drilled but, according to the district they came from, they will be sent to different parts of the world. Captain Lee is adjutant. Lieutenant Colonel Burns visited the camp in the afternoon, and will go so daily till the men leave.

It is not too much to say that it is upon the quality of the technical education offered and upon the state of the technical staff that much of the prosperity of Australia depends.

The story of the Pavoia which is told in our cablegram this morning is one of the most moving tales of the sea. For twenty days the Cunarder was exposed to the fury of an Atlantic February gale. She was sighted, and endangered; she was given up for lost; her reinsurance cost 70 guineas per cent.; and it was hoping against hope to expect her arrival in port. Now we are able to reconstruct in imagination the sufferings of the Pavoia. She was disabled by the MALTA and MAIL STEAMERS.—The mails by the P. and O. Company's R.M.S. Oruba arrived yesterday morning. The Oruba was expected to arrive on Friday next. The Orion Company's R.M.S. Oruba arrived yesterday morning from Barbados and the Cape. The German mail ship Barbarossa sails to-morrow for London and Malta. Many berths have been engaged by the vessel, and included in the list are Sir H. Delyon Oakley, Lady Oakley, Miss Oakley, Mrs. General Brooke, and the Hon. Sir John Lubbock, Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, C.O.B., K.C.S.I., and Lady Ridgeway will join the Barbarossa to-morrow. The Orion Company's R.M.S. Oruba will arrive in London. Her passenger accommodation has been well filled, and amongst the passengers are Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, C.O.B., K.C.S.I., and Lady Ridgeway, who will leave Sydney on Monday. The Orion Company's R.M.S. Oruba will leave Sydney on Monday. The Orion Company's R.M.S. Oruba will leave Sydney on Monday.

storm, and the extent of her helplessness can be gauged from her sentence about her boilers being adrift. On a man-of-war no accident is more dreaded than for a gun to burst out, for its blind movements would out of control may pound the deck and sides into wreckage. Worse than this is when such a disaster befalls the boilers; these, that should be the great ship's salvation, menace her with speedy destruction. For four days, with what superhuman toils and dangers, not to imagine, the people of the Favonia endeavored to secure the engines; for two days, they despair. But at last the danger was conquered. Then came the efforts to tow the disabled steamer to the Azores. The cable parted, and in the night the ships separated, to meet again three days afterwards, when the storm was at its height. It was again again and at length the vessel was brought safe to port. More marvellous even than this was the wonderful twenty days' conflict of the ship and men with all the powers of an Atlantic hurricane in the fact that passengers and crew are all safe. Not a life was lost. The ship was able to fight off a life lost in the four days' battle with the blind monsters drift in the hold, nor in the twenty days of incessant struggle with death by sea and tempest. The saving of the Pavia should yield a story as full of heroism as any; even the necessarily brief summary presented on a cablegram conveys the outlines of a magnificent seamanship.

While it is of course undesirable to restrict in any undue fashion free access by the public to their Botanic Gardens, there is some ground for such a complaint as that expressed in a letter published yesterday. There was a time when limited entrance to the Gardens was somewhat the rule, and when the public were subjoined to certain "admission" to the

was given and a short homeward made. The day's fishing, a number very pleasing to all.

SUNDAY LABOUR.—The Rev. Canon Atkinson, of the Sydney Diocese, held yesterday a meeting of the Sydney Diocesan Council, and it is its duty to watch developments, and if in its judgment it is deemed necessary, to take any steps to counteract the same.

THE ATLANTIC STORMS.

THE DISABLING OF THE PAVONIA.

TWENTY DAYS ADRIFT.

A PERILOUS SITUATION.

TOWED TO THE AZORES.

LONDON, Feb. 20.

Further details have been received of the disabling of the Atlantic of the Cunard steamer Pavonia.

For 20 days the Pavonia was adrift in the Atlantic and experienced terrific weather.

Her boilers got adrift in the hold, and it was only after four days' continuous exertion that they were re-secured in their places.

For two days the situation was desperate.

On the tenth day out the steamer was towed to the Azores, a cable was put aboard and a tow commenced; but the work had scarcely begun when the cable broke. The vessels separated at night, but again met. A third vessel then came to the aid of the Pavonia, and it was towed to the Azores.

The passengers and crew are all safe.

THE FRANCO-RUSSIAN ALLIANCE.

FAVOURABLE COMMENTS BY THE RUSSIAN PRESS.

LONDON, Feb. 19.

The Russian newspapers comment in favourable terms upon the Franco-Russian alliance.

Several large sharks have been seen in the upper reaches of the River Thames, and it is reported that they are doing much damage to the fish.

THE FRENCH PRESIDENT.

M. LOUBET'S ELECTION.

FAVOURABLY RECEIVED IN THE PROVINCES.

LONDON, Feb. 19.

The election of M. Loubet, as President of the French Republic has been favourably received in the French provinces.

THE LATE PRESIDENT.

ENGLISH SYMPATHY GRATEFULLY NOTED IN PARIS.

LONDON, Feb. 19.

The spontaneous sympathy with which English sympathy was expressed for France in the death of President Fauré has been gratefully noted in Paris, where it is pointed out that this sympathy is coincident with the improved relations that have taken place between the two countries.

The warmth with which the Emperor William paid a personal visit to the French Embassy in Berlin, and remained there for 40 minutes.

THE ELECTION OF PRESIDENT.

ORDERLY PROCEEDINGS.

REPUBLICANS JOYFUL.

M. LOUBET'S DECLARATION.

ALWAYS A REPUBLICAN.

LONDON, Feb. 20.

The proceedings of the National Assembly at Versailles on Saturday were orderly with two exceptions.

M. Deroulle accused M. Loubet of being a "Panamist," and a Dreyfusite, and M. Drumont and Baudry d'Asson and a few reactionaries attempted to speak after the voting had been allowed to commence.

The Republicans greeted the election of M. Loubet with cheers.

M. Loubet, seeing that his chance of election was hopeless, tried to prevent his supporters voting for himself.

Fifty votes were given among eight other candidates, M. Cavaignac, a former Minister for War, receiving 23.

M. Loubet, in thanking the National Assembly for having elected him President, declared that he would always be a Republican, and would promote pacification and order. He said he hoped to establish frequent relations with Parliament.

CHARACTER OF M. LOUBET.

"HONEST BUT RATHER WEAK."

THE STREET DEMONSTRATIONS.

FORTY-SIX INJURED.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY ARRESTS.

LONDON, Feb. 20.

The Continental newspapers are generally favourable to the newly elected President. The St. Petersburg press, however, is cool in its tone.

The radical and socialist newspapers of Paris support M. Loubet.

The new President is a lawyer. He is fond of literature, music, and art. He is affable in manner and indifferent to pomp.

M. Loubet is regarded as an honest and well-meaning politician, but rather weak.

The street demonstrations were apparently those of unconcerned rowdiness. Forty-six persons were injured, including 14 police. Two hundred and fifty arrests have been made.

THE CABINET.

M. DUPUY CONSENTS TO REMAIN.

LONDON, Feb. 20.

M. Dupuy, the Premier, has consented to remain office if his revision policy remains unaltered.
